I am Rider Woman, hear me roar

Katie Sveinson, a University of Regina master's student, is examining female fans of Rider Nation for her thesis. Sveinson began her research after noticing a difference in how others reacted when she donned a Riders jersey versus a Green Bay Packers jersey. She says the overarching theme she has found among Riders fans is "inclusiveness." ALYSSA MCDONALD/METRO

University of Regina student researches female fandom in Rider Nation

alyssa.mcdonald@metronews.ca

Katie Sveinson is taking an unconventional look into the psyches of those who celebrate Saskatchewan's Green and White — particularly the female fans.

Sveinson, a University of Regina master's student, has set out to determine whether female Saskatchewan Roughrider fans are empowered or marginalized — and the result of the pilot project found that neither of those words really describes them.

What she has discovered is that female fandom in Rider Nation is many things — but most of all, it's inclusive.

"It's inclusive to everyone," Sveinson said on Thursday, "and to me, that is something that not a lot of places could maybe accomplish … that level of welcoming and inclusiveness to anyone who wants to be a fan."

Sveinson interviewed nine women between the ages of 20 and 55 as part of the initial component of the project in January. And two weeks ago, she received a Shirk Scholarship of $17,500 to dig deeper into the subject as part of her master's thesis in the U of R's faculty of kinesiology and health studies.

Everybody can be a Melonhead

"That is something that not a lot of places could maybe accomplish ... that level of welcoming and inclusiveness to anyone who wants to be a fan."

Master's student Katie Sveinson, on what sets female fandom in Rider Nation apart.

She plans to expand the project to include "highly identified" female fans and geographically displaced fans and will continue to look at what sets Riders fans apart from supporters of the other eight Canadian Football League teams.

"You see that these fans are unique, but it's why," said Sveinson.

"Is it being a Riders fan or is it Saskatchewan? Is it the CFL? Or is it Canada? I have no idea, and it's just the tip of the iceberg what I have found out about this."

Sveinson began her research after noticing the difference between when she donned a Riders jersey and a Green Bay Packers jersey — her two favourite teams in the CFL and NFL. She felt people were always questioning her knowledge and fandom while she wore her Packers jersey.

The 24-year-old has found her Riders research to be unique compared to previous studies of female sports fans — most of which came from Europe and Australia, where there has been a divide between men and women.

That's not what she sees with the Riders.

"It's great that we live in a place that fosters this community," Sveinson said. "Everybody is equal and everybody is a fan — that's all that matters."

Saskatchewan population profit is Manitoba's loss

The right rate. Tax breaks a vital incentive for westward migration

ROSS ROMANIUK
ross.romaniuk@metronews.ca

Sask. savings

$5,382

A Manitoban who earns $40,000, and buys a $25,000 used vehicle and $300,000 home, will pay $5,382 more in taxes than the same person in Saskatchewan.

The boundary between Manitoba and Saskatchewan is seeing far more movement of residents westward than toward the east, statistics show. CONTRIBUTED/FLICKR/TEAM SCUBY

Saskatchewan's population is gaining at an ever-increasing pace at Manitoba's expense, and some analysts say tax differences are the key reason.

Net migration to Saskatchewan from Manitoba reached a five-year high in 2011-12, as the number of people hit 495 — way up from 99 in 2007-08.

The Canadian Taxpayers Federation (CTF) points to several financial factors in addition to Manitoba's provincial sales tax, which is slated to jump to eight per cent from seven per cent this summer — significantly higher than Saskatchewan's five per cent PST.

"Saskatchewan has to be loving these numbers," Colin Craig, Prairie region director with the CTF, said on Thursday of the Statistics Canada figures.

"Talented Manitobans are taking their money out of the Manitoba economy and plunking it down in Saskatchewan."

In Manitoba, personal income tax on a salary of $40,000 is $7,880 — more than $800 higher than what a Saskatchewan resident pays in the same income bracket. On a $60,000 gross salary, a Manitoban currently pays $14,581, while a Saskatchewan worker is taxed $13,760.

"We want to create a situation in Saskatchewan that makes us attractive, not necessarily at the expense of another province or another area," Finance Minister Ken Krawetz told Metro last month.

"There's room for growth in Saskatchewan, and we're interested in that — moving forward with a growth agenda."

Craig pointed out that the difference on a $40,000 salary between the two Prairie provinces is more staggering if that taxpayer purchases a $25,000 used vehicle and a home for $300,000.

Because a Saskatchewan resident in that situation would pay no sales tax on the car compared with $1,750 in Manitoba, and a land transfer fee of $900 on the home instead of Manitoba's $3,720, the overall difference — including the personal income tax — totals $5,382 in Saskatchewan's favour.

And, Craig noted, that total doesn't include the PST difference and school taxes.

Bottom-feeder threatening Wascana Lake

Wascana Centre Authority park naturalist Jared Clarke. METRO

An increase in the number of common carp in Wascana Lake is threatening the aquatic ecosystem, leading the Wascana Centre Authority to investigate the situation.

Jared Clarke, a park naturalist with the Wascana Centre Authority, says they noticed a high number of the bottom-feeder fish in 2012, and their continued growth has raised flags for the centre.

"We anticipate with a high number of carp, an increase in algae blooms and potentially blue-green algae blooms, which are of concern," Clarke said on Thursday.

"They are changing the underwater ecosystem and potentially impacting — quite negatively — other animals like water fowl or even other fish species."

The carp make the lake murky by stirring up sediment and uprooting vegetation on its floor, which Clarke says is "both an ecological integrity issue but also a water-quality issue."

Because the carp seem to be the same size, Clarke believes they came into the lake at the same time — most likely with help from high water during the 2011 flood.

He says the carp is not native to the area. They were brought over from Asia by early European settlers, and are categorized as invasive.

Barcamp playing it loose

U of R. Technology 'unconference' all about exchanging ideas

Barcamp could be described as a conference, though organizers see it as an "unconference."

The event is structured around unstructured talks and conversations about technology, encouraging participation from those involved.

"It's more about audience participation and community engagement as opposed to bringing in big keynote speakers," Chad McCallum, one of the four Barcamp organizers, said on Thursday.

Although the event is based on technology, its topics are far more varied. McCallum, for example, will speak to participants about recruitment. Others have signed up to delve into matters such as making music electronically and social media.

The gathering will be based on bits and pieces from other Barcamps across Canada and the world, including Saskatoon's six such events so far. This will be Regina's first Barcamp.

"Our first initial reactions on social media were, 'Why are your guys talking about beer? What is a bar camp?'" McCallum said. "But for a lot of the people that are coming, the idea of a Barcamp has been around for a while."

The "unconference," which is sponsored by the Regina Tech Community, already has 70 people signed up. Anyone can come to the free event, which starts at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday at Springboard West at the University of Regina. Participants are encouraged to speak about subjects they're passionate about.

"We are not actually going to have a schedule up until 10:30 the day of the event," said McCallum.

"Anyone who registers is welcome to fill out a cue card, put it up on the wall and we will try to schedule it in."

Forget royal weddings — how about a Rider wedding?

They'll celebrate their weddings in white, and with a lot of green. After all, nuptials past and present marked in conjunction with the Saskatchewan Roughriders would have it no other way.

The Roughriders are honouring a love affair with their supporters by playing host to one huge celebration of marriage — and part of it will be played out in front of a packed Mosaic Stadium game crowd, with mascot Gainer the Gopher overseeing the proceedings.

"There are not going to be any rabbis, there aren't going to be any priests or ministers. What they're going to get is Gainer," Steve Mazurak, Roughriders vice-president of scholarships, said of the event planned for Saskatchewan's game against the Montreal Alouettes on Aug. 17. "And a crowd of people will celebrate with them and cheer them on."

The game event will involve married couples of all ages — from newlyweds to husbands and wives who have been together for decades — who are taking part after signing up for the Riders Wedding package.

For $500 or $900, Mazurak said, couples and their assembled friends and families will receive prize packages, rooms at the Hotel Saskatchewan and one reception for all of them together.

"There's going to be ample room and ample fun, and we'll just make it happen," Mazurak said. "It's just going to be an absolute blast."

Details are available by emailing weddings@saskriders.com.

He pointed out that the event will not be about actually performing weddings, but about celebrating the affection of fans in a new way.

"The Roughriders are a family affair," Mazurak said. "And this year, it's about making new memories."

No beef with beef. E. coli outbreak hasn't shaken consumer confidence

Canadian cattle producers say an E. coli outbreak that made 18 people sick and led to a recall last fall hasn't shaken consumer confidence in beef.

Canada Beef Inc., the industry's marketing arm, said total beef consumption last year was up 2.2 per cent from 2011.

Chairman Chuck MacLean said the industry supports the findings of an independent review that blamed lax attitudes by federal inspectors and staff at the XL Foods plant in Brooks, Alta., for the tainted meat.

Canada Beef said it also supports Ottawa's plan to tighten rules for meat plants and add more inspections.

"I like the 30 recommendations and I think a lot of them are already being enacted," MacLean said Thursday from Bow Island in southeastern Alberta.

Organ donation. Dying girl, 10, placed on adult waiting list for lung

The national organ transplant network has complied with a judge's order and placed a dying 10-year-old girl on the adult waiting list for a lung.

The Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network added her to the list Wednesday night after U.S. District Judge Michael Baylson's ruling, U.S. Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius said Thursday.

The girl, Sarah Murnaghan, also remains on the priority list for a lung from a pediatric donor, Sebelius said.

Sarah's parents had challenged existing policy that made children under 12 wait for pediatric lungs to become available, or be offered lungs donated by adults.

French left-wing activist killed during fight with skinheads

A group of skinheads beat a French far-left activist to death in the heart of Paris' shopping district, officials said Thursday, in an attack that raised fears of increased far-right violence.

Political tensions are high in France after months of protests against legalizing gay marriage that sometimes ended with troublemakers from the extreme right clashing with police.

Interior Minister Manuel Valls said a fight broke out Wednesday evening between two groups of young people in a pedestrian street just steps away from the famous Printemps department store. The activist, Clement Meric, was initially hospitalized in grave condition, then died Thursday, said Agnes Thibault-Lecuivre, spokeswoman for the Paris prosecutor's office.

Four suspects, aged 20 to 37 and believed to have links to extreme right movements, were arrested, Thibault-Lecuivre said.

Tighter rules. New bill tabled by feds adds more criteria for injection sites

The federal government has introduced tough new rules for supervised drug-injection sites, in a move some see as an effort to deter such facilities.

The government says it's a response to a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that ordered the Conservatives to keep a Vancouver clinic open against their will.

But NDP health critic Libby Davies said the government is effectively blocking any chance of setting up a new clinic.

The new legislation would require advocates of new clinics to meet two dozen specific criteria before they can apply to open a new clinic. Among other things, they would have to canvass community opinion and gain the support of provincial and municipal authorities.

The health minister would then make the final decision.

As Health Minister Leona Aglukkaq tabled her bill on Thursday, she made it clear which way she will lean.

"Our government believes that a site involving the use of illicit substances should be strictly controlled to protect everyone in the community," she told reporters.

"Accordingly, we believe that the application process needs to be changed to create formal opportunities for local voices to be heard and their views considered before an exemption would be considered."

The Conservative Party immediately followed up with a plea to party supporters to sign a petition to "keep heroin out of our backyards.''

In a note attached to the petition, Conservative Party operations director Jenni Byrne says, "special interests are trying to open up these supervised drug consumption sites in cities and towns across Canada — over the objections of local residents and law enforcement.

Miss World pageant to show less skin

Indonesia. Contestants will have to opt for more conservative sarongs instead of bikinis

Miss World has axed the famed bikinis from this year's pageant in Indonesia, replacing the skimpy swimsuits with conservative beach sarongs amid mounting protests from hard-line Muslim groups, organizers said Thursday.

All of the more than 130 contestants will be required to wear Bali's traditional long sarongs instead of the sexy bikinis that are historically part of the competition, said Adjie S. Soeratmadjie of the RCTI, the official broadcaster and local organizer. Parts of the pageant will take place on the resort island of Bali and the final round will be held Sept. 28 near the capital, Jakarta. Indonesia is the world's most populous Muslim country.

"There will be no bikini in this year's Miss World pageant to respect our traditional customs and values," Soeratmadjie said, adding that the London-based Miss World Organization is on board with the decision.

"This is a sensitive issue in Indonesia. We have discussed it since last year and they have agreed," he said.

The chairwoman of the Miss World Organization, Julia Morley, confirmed that none of the 137 contestants would wear a bikini.

"Indonesia is designing for us a very beautiful one-piece beachwear, and I'm very happy with them," she told The Associated Press by phone from London, adding that the pageant will include a special beachwear fashion show.

Canadian seeks record for wine label collection

Guinness attempt.
Toronto man has more than 160,000 labels — although he didn't drink all that vino

It would take more than four consecutive days to view every item in what just might be the world's largest wine-label collection.

Toronto resident and former sommelier Alain Laliberte owns about 160,000 wine labels, carefully stored in 123 shoeboxes. He has contacted Guinness World Records because he is confident he has enough to break the current high of 16,349 labels.

Of course, he hasn't managed to taste the contents of all 160,000 bottles. But with an average of 5,000 wines sampled per year, he's not that far off.

Quoted

"It's interesting that some people find an interest in these small pieces of paper. Some of them are pieces of art."
Wine-label collector Alain Laliberte

Laliberte's hobby led last weekend to him becoming the jury president at a wine-labels championship, organized as part of the International Wine Championship in Quebec City. Jurors selected an Ontario ice wine, Coldhearted Riesling 2007, as the winner among the 81 competitors from different countries. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Strawberry fields under the weather

At least 40 per cent of Nova Scotia's strawberry industry, a sector worth about $18 million annually, has been damaged by an insect-borne virus, provincial Agriculture Minister John MacDonell said Thursday. The virus is carried by aphids and has been detected in the Debert area, near Truro, as well as the Annapolis Valley. But MacDonell said he wasn't worried about the possibility of the virus spreading much further because of the relatively short distances aphids travel. The affected plants aren't harmful to eat but they are often stunted and can't be sold, and berries may disappear from the plants. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

FEMALE VIAGRA HARD TO SWALLOW

THE METRO LIST

Mike Benhaim
metronews.ca

1 Sexy specs. Google Glass users were briefly treated to some mobile porn before the Internet giant's moral police yanked it out from under them. The perfectly respectable app, entitled T*ts and Glass, allowed users to share unfiltered content, and they stopped it. Kudos to Google for taking a stand and saying, "Hey, you can watch porn on your desktops, laptops and smartphones all you want, just not while you're crossing the street, dammit!"

2 Calling occupants. NASA Prof. Joel Levine is looking for $650 million to finance an aerial regional-scale environmental survey. Basically, a robotic, rocket-powered airplane to fly around Mars searching for trace gases that prove there is life on the planet. We have no information on how much the Martians spent probing Earth for humans with trace gases.

3 Badass Biebs. Justin Bieber is smoking weed, getting inked, hanging with gangsta rappers, and wearing white undershirts with gold chains. He's taken to fast cars and has even added a lazy little ghetto-strut to his walk. I am just waiting for his first teardrop tattoo so I can actually start listening to his music.

4 Subcellular. A recent study revealed that even though Google's Android phones captured a majority of the U.S. smartphone market share, the average iPhone user spends more than 50 per cent more time actually using their device than Android users. The reason? Porn.

5 Forever young. Researchers in Australia performed a study of sun damage among 900 people. Some applied sunscreen on a daily basis, while others used it only when they felt exposed. After four years, those using sunscreen religiously had 24 per cent less skin aging than the others. They were also extremely pale, completely broke, and more prone to having objects slip from their greasy hands.

6 For the ladies. A Dutch company called Emotional Brain is performing clinical trials of a new drug, Lybrido. The female Viagra is said to treat hypoactive sexual desire disorder. HSDD is a lack of sexual desire affecting many women. If the research proves successful, scientists will immediately begin work on another pill that will make women care enough to take the first one.

7 Double dribble. Former NBA all-stars Jason Kidd and Grant Hill were drafted one after the other in 1994, shared Rookie of the Year honours in 1995, and at 40, were among the five oldest players in the league this year. This week, two days after Grant Hill retired, Jason Kidd announced he would do the same. Sources close to Hill say he is looking for a new home as far away from Kidd as possible.

8 This week. In 1969, Keith Richards and partner Anita Pallenberg were in a car accident near their home in Sussex. While the car was written off and Pallenberg suffered a broken collarbone, Richards escaped serious injury, proving once again that Keith cannot be killed.

9 Also this week. In 1997, Oasis guitarist Noel Gallagher played a five-song set at the Tibet Freedom Concert. He then walked off stage, got drunk and punched out a fan. I'm kidding. That was not the night he punched out a fan.

10 Happy anniversary. To my wife of several years, thanks for putting up with me.

Talking about it takes guts. Walking for Crohn's is a good first step

News worth sharing

Media will always have to report on the tough stuff. But we know that Canada is full of compassionate people, inspiring projects and stories worth celebrating. Here's just one:

It takes guts to talk about living with Crohn's disease. Trent Linford, who was diagnosed with the disease at 17, kept his condition private for nearly two decades.

Then, the father of two young daughters — aged two and four — learned that Crohn's disease is potentially hereditary. He hoped that by going public, his daughters might never have to endure the pain and suffering he has. Linford signed up for the local Gutsy Walk for Crohn's and Colitis, one of 60 such walks across Canada that raise money to find a cure for inflammatory bowel diseases. Still, discussing his condition didn't come easily, especially writing a fundraising email.

"It probably sat in my draft box for three weeks before I finally had the nerve to send it out," Linford says. When he did, the support was "overwhelming." This year, Linford is again participating in the June 9 walk and aims to raise $6,000. But that's not his only goal. "It's not an easy disease for people to talk about, and I am a prime example of that," says Linford. He wants to lead the way, and make it easier for others to talk about the disease. To participate or find out more, visit gutsywalk.ca.

Synopsis

This new buddy comedy pairs Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn for the first time since 2005's Wedding Crashers. They are Nick and Billy, two wild and crazy guys whose sales jobs are made obsolete in the technological age. Unable to get a foothold in the new media field they crash Google's Mountain View, Calif. headquarters and become "noogles" in hopes of landing gigs as interns, despite having no experience with computers. "We're looking at some sort of mental Hunger Games against a bunch of genius kids for just a handful of jobs," says Nick.

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Searching for laughs

The Internship.
Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn fail to rekindle that Wedding Crashers magic in this poor man's version of Revenge of the Nerds

Richard: Mark, this is the funniest infomercial I've ever seen. As a comedy movie it doesn't rate that high, but as an advertisement for Google it's a knee slapper. I've seen product placement in movies before, but this is something else. By the time Rose Byrnes' character says, "I believe what we do here makes people's lives better," I was ready to worship at the Church of the Sacred Search Engine. We also learn that Google is ranked as the best place to work in America. That's all great, but I was hoping for more laughs with my infomercial. What did you think?

Mark: Ugh! The shameless corporate tie-in made me want to take a shower. And it opens up the door for less savoury companies to do the same thing: can Monsanto: The Movie be far behind? It's too bad, because the leads are great, and it's a great premise — but I didn't laugh once. It could have been a version of Animal House set at a business behemoth, but comes off as a bad Revenge of the Nerds. The idea would make a great reality series, but the movie flops and feels engineered from the first frame onwards.

RC: I'm not so sure I thought the leads were great. There are some laughs in The Internship. Unfortunately, very few of them are generated by Vaughn and Wilson. The chemistry that made Wedding Crashers such a big hit eight years ago is still in place, but the material isn't. They still banter a blue streak but it feels tired and old, like many of the jokes. The two luddites at a tech mecca should have been workable, but it often feels like laughing at grandpa because he can't figure out how to work the remote.

MB: I meant the leads are great, but not in this movie! Everything seems laboured, underscored, and over directed. These two guys may preach the value of eccentricity in the workplace, but the script defies their goal at every turn. It's a very conventional movie that's even a little smarmy at times. The old Vince Vaughn would have made fun of the sentimentality that crowds any good moments out of the picture. And Wilson's role is just too vaporous to register.

RC: Perhaps next time the screenwriters can Google some better jokes.

MB: I say Yahoo! to that.

Much ado about comics and TV

Beauty in the Bard.
Much Ado About Nothing director Joss Whedon has looked to Shakespeare for most of his work

Director Joss Whedon
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some might find it strange that Joss Whedon's first movie since The Avengers — his 2012 megahit about a team of Marvel Comics superheroes — is an independent adaptation of Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing. But it makes perfect sense to him. The man who created TV hits like Buffy the Vampire Slayer and its spinoff Angel says his dramas all have a bit of the Bard in them.

"When you're working in Marvel Comics — whether it's comics or the cinematic universe — you're cribbing from Shakespeare," Whedon said in a recent interview.

"The big themes, the big emotions, its kings, and betrayal and love and tragedy and that good stuff, and even in the way I write, any time you get to write about an Asgardian, there's going to be a touch of the Elizabethan in there."

While Much Ado debuts in theatres next Friday, Whedon's focus is already on Avengers 2 — due out in 2015 — and his upcoming Marvel-based TV series Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D., which premieres on ABC this fall. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thriller

The Purge

Director. James DeMonaco

Stars. Ethan Hawke, Lena Headey

To call The Purge cooked-up is an injustice to baked goods. A dystopian futuristic thriller about a family enduring an annual 12-hour government-backed event whereby crimes of any sort are legal (somehow this curbs violence the other 364 days of the calendar?) is as contrived and callous as cinema gets. If the filmmaker's aim was to create a moral allegory akin to A Clockwork Orange, he didn't even come within an eyelash.

Investing wisely.
IT'S YOUR WASTEWATER TREATMENT PLANT.
The City of Regina is investing wisely in our new Wastewater Treatment Plant to secure the best value for residents.
- Using a public private partnership will save an estimated $79.6 million over building the plant the traditional way.
- The City will always own and control the plant, no matter who builds it.
- Only the City will set utility rates.
- The new plant will improve water quality for downstream residents and businesses.
- Employees' jobs will be protected, and they will receive advanced training for any new technologies.

Our water is in our hands, and we're keeping it that way.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Channing Tatum ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Tatum worries about Bieber's development

Despite having a newborn daughter at home to concern himself with, Channing Tatum admits he's more worried about another young person: Justin Bieber. "I do believe that whatever age you become famous, you end up staying that age," Tatum tells Vanity Fair. "I worry about Bieber, man. That kid's wildly talented. I hope he doesn't fall down into the usual ways of young kids because it's so hard for someone to be responsible when they're not asked to be."

Pop stars in space

This may or may not give Channing Tatum more reason to be concerned: Justin Bieber has booked a spot on a Virgin Galactic suborbital space flight, according to Virgin founder Richard Branson. "Great to hear Justin Bieber and (his manager) Scooter Braun are latest Virgin Galactic future astronauts. Congrats, see you up there," Branson posted to Twitter this week. Bieber seemed to confirm the news by re-tweeting the mogul's sentiments. Back in February, Bieber tweeted that he wants to "do a concert in space," so perhaps this is more of a scouting trip than a vacation.

'I would watch it all the time,' Snooki says of a Bynes reality show

Former Jersey Shore star Nicole "Snooki" Polizzi thinks Amanda Bynes' antics would best be showcased on a reality show.

"I just think she's entertaining. And I think she needs a reality show because I would watch it all the time," Snooki tells E! News. "If she needed help, I would wish that she would get it, obviously, but she's entertaining. She's my guilty pleasure on Twitter."

Ethan Hawke

Ethan Hawke gushes over Cage's acting abilities

Ethan Hawke admits he's more than a little "obsessed" with fellow actor Nicolas Cage.

"He's the only actor since Marlon Brando that's actually done anything new with the art of acting," he said during a Q&A session on Reddit. "He's successfully taken us away from an obsession with naturalism into a kind of presentation style of acting that I imagine was popular with the old troubadours. If I could erase his bottom half bad movies and only keep his top half movies, he would blow everyone out of the water." No word, though, on whether Hawke is going to let Cage influence his own acting style.

Planning a wedding is no piece of cake, although you do get one in the end. But the road to the big day can be bumpy, especially when it comes to choosing wine to be served for that all important toast to the bride.

Try to focus on wines that will charm everyone from your know-it-all boss to your new mother-in-law. Worry less about what you prefer and more about what the majority of your guests will enjoy.

Then there's the cost. Here is where size matters. There's a savings component when you trade up, so bigger is always better.

The selection of 1.5 litre bottles varies wildly across the country. So does their flavour profiles, with many "Canadian" versions made from a blend of imported and domestic juice.

Chile offers some of the best value when it comes to larger bottles, with Concha y Toro's 2011 Frontera Cabernet Sauvignon Merlot (1,500 ml, $13.95 to $19.99) offering bright, red berry fruit and Frontera Sauvignon Blanc (1,500 ml, $13.95 to $19.99) showing off gooseberry and citrus expression.

Truth be told, they're what I served at my nuptials.

PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

A great way to make your own healthier pizzas is to use thin flour tortillas or pita bread rather than the thick pizza dough that has more calories than nutrients!

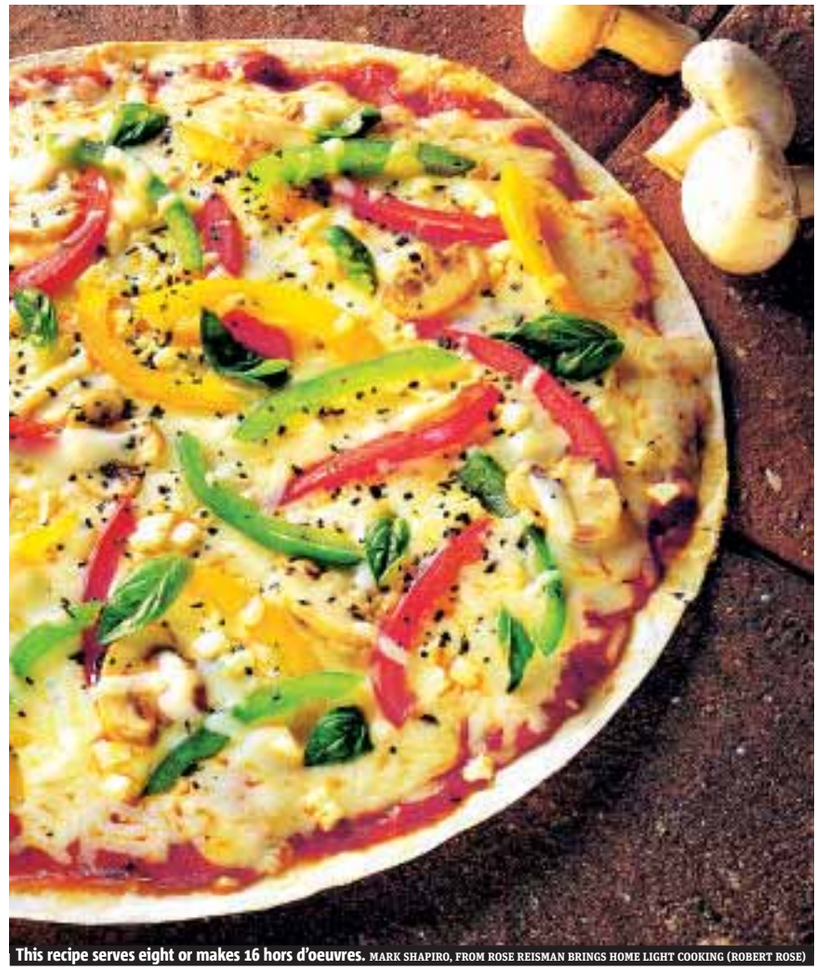
Use whatever vegetables and cheese you like.

1. Preheat the oven to 400 F. Place pita bread or tortillas on pizza metal or ceramic dish.

2. Divide the tomato sauce among the breads, ensuring to spread evenly.

Ingredients

- 4 flour small tortillas or pita breads (preferably whole wheat)
- 3/4 cup tomato pasta sauce
- 8 small mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 1/4 cup diced sweet red or green pepper
- 1 tbsp chopped fresh basil
- 1/2 tsp dried oregano
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped feta cheese (optional)



This recipe serves eight or makes 16 hors d'oeuvres. MARK SHAPIRO, FROM ROSE REISMAN BRINGS HOME LIGHT COOKING (ROBERT ROSE)

3. Top with mushrooms, red pepper, basil and oregano. Sprinkle with cheeses.

4. Bake the pizza for 12 minutes or until it is crisp and the cheese is melted.

This recipe serves four. NEWS CANADA

You mozza try this dish. It's grape!

The delightful pairing of sweet grapes and salty cheese will make this gourmet pizza a hit with friends and family.

Try using blue cheese or Gorgonzola instead of goat cheese for a stronger flavour and for great crunch and flavour, choose firm grapes and fresh pine nuts.

1. On a lightly floured surface, roll out the pizza dough and top with a drizzle of olive oil.

2. In a bowl, combine grapes, rosemary leaves, pine nuts and a drizzle of olive oil. Set aside.

3. Slide the pizza dough on the barbecue and cook on medium heat for 2 to 3 minutes on each side until slightly golden brown.

4. Remove dough from barbecue and top with half of the Mozzarellissima, then all of the goat cheese and the grape mixture. Cover with the remaining Mozzarellissima.

Ingredients

- 2 lb (1 kg) store-bought pizza dough
- olive oil, to taste
- 1 cup (250 ml) seedless white grapes, halved
- 1 cup (250 ml) seedless red grapes, halved
- 3 sprigs rosemary, removing leaves from stems
- 3 tbsp (45 ml) pine nuts, chopped
- 1 1/3 cups (300 g) Mozzarellissima cheese, shredded
- 2 oz (50 g) goat cheese (or blue cheese)
- fleur de sel, to taste

5. Place back on the barbecue, close cover and cook on medium heat for 5 to 7 minutes, or until the cheese is fully melted. Remove from barbecue, lightly season with fleur de sel and serve. NEWS CANADA/ SAPUTOALACARTE.CA.

DOG DAYS OF SUMMER

FUN ACTIVITIES FOR YOU AND YOUR PET

GEM PHOTOGRAPHY/VEER

Discover the joy of being active with your canine companion. Try some of these fun activities:

1 Go for a walk. Sounds basic, but many pet owners don't make it a daily practice. "Behaviour problems and obesity — the No. 1 medical problem for dogs — can arise from inadequate exercise," says Dr. Deji Odetoyinbo, a veterinarian with a busy urban practice in Toronto and 12 years experience in emergency medicine.

2 Play fetch. Whether you use balls, squeak toys or some other retrievable object, many dogs love fetching. "Dogs are social animals and retrieving something is an interaction that's mentally gratifying and intensely rewarding."

3 Go for a swim. Dogs generally like water, but swimming comes with a few caveats. "Not every breed should be allowed in water — bulldogs in particular," Odetoyinbo says. "Make sure the current is safe. And remember that floating algae can be deadly, so if the water has a blue-green film, keep your dog out."

4 Go for obedience training. This is especially important for younger dogs, but even old dogs can learn new tricks. "It's also a good way to solidify the bond between pet and owner."

5 Take your dog visiting. A well-behaved dog can do wonders for seniors and those with developmental disabilities. "Talk to your vet first to ensure your dog has the right temperament and is free of communicable health problems, since some people you encounter may be immune-compromised," Odetoyinbo says.

6 Go on vacation. "Just make sure to take along first aid items, medications and food (in case you can't get your regular brand where you are going). Give your dog plenty of bathroom breaks, water and cool air while driving. Ensure immunizations are up to date and check that your destination is pet friendly."

STRETCHING YOUR LEGS WITH YOUR FOUR-LEGGED FRIEND

To keep walks happy, comfortable and safe, here is a quick list of things to consider when you are out and about with your four-legged friend this summer, compiled with the help of Dr. Deji Odetoyinbo, a Toronto veterinarian with 12 years experience in emergency medicine.

Plan your route. It's easy to head out, then find that you have gone too far and your pet is struggling. "Especially short-faced breeds like pugs and bulldogs can suffer severe respiratory distress if they're exercised on hot days," Odetoyinbo says.

Stay on the grass. Concrete or paved surfaces can cause burned foot pads if you are walking on a hot day. "Staying on a path or grassy surface will keep paws cooler and act as better cushioning for a dog's joints."

Go early or late. "Many dogs keep going until they drop, so it's important to ensure they don't get overheated. Walk early or late in the day when it's cooler."

Take a leash. "Even if you're headed to an off-leash zone, your pet should be leashed en route." Not all dogs are well-behaved in the dog park, so it's best to be able to leash your pet if it or other dogs it is playing with are acting up.

Carry enough poop bags. One dog, one bag, right? Wrong! You may need extras sincesome dogs go multiple times — or someone else in the park might be stuck. "Three bags is a good number," Odetoyinbo says.

Don't forget water. Most dogs aren't trained to drink out of a bottle. "There are great collapsible containers that double as a dispenser that are handy and easy to carry." Check your local pet store.

Woods' $78M last year ranks first

Tiger Woods is back on top of Forbes' list of highest-paid athletes.

The star golfer spent 11 straight years at No. 1 on the magazine's list before falling to third in 2012. The magazine estimates he made $78.1 million over the last year. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I feel confident in my body and the way it's been responding."

Redskins QB Robert Griffin III said Thursday "without a doubt" that he expects to be fully recovered from knee surgery and in uniform when training camp starts on July 25 in Richmond, Va.

NHL playoffs. With Boston ahead 11-2 in goals over the series, Pittsburgh needs to fill the net to avoid sweep

The Penguins are improving at putting more shots on net. They just need to put more into the net.

And they're running out of time.

Pittsburgh forced Boston goalie Tuukka Rask to make 53 saves, but the Bruins won 2-1 in double overtime on Wednesday night for a 3-0 lead in the Eastern Conference final.

The Penguins must keep firing pucks at Rask, forward Pascal Dupuis said Thursday, and "with the firepower that we have on our team, eventually they will go in."

If "eventually" doesn't come Friday night, their season will be over in stunning fashion. The team of Sidney Crosby, Evgeni Malkin and other top offensive threats will have been swept in the best-of-seven series.

It would be a shocking end to a season in which the Penguins led the NHL in scoring, and averaged 4.27 goals per game in their first two playoff series, but have been outscored 11-2 in the three losses to the Bruins.

Only three teams have overcome 3-0 playoff deficits. The Penguins know the odds are stacked heavily against them but are trying to ignore that.

"I think if you're betting right now, you're not betting on the Penguins down 3-0," said forward Brandon Sutter, who has one of their two goals. "But we're not going to quit. The percentages are, obviously, against us, but we've got a good team."

The top-seeded Penguins were dominated by the fourth-seeded Bruins in the first two games, losing 3-0 and 6-1. But in Game 3, they outplayed Boston for much of regulation.

"We need to be the team who we believe we are and go back to what's made us successful," forward Matt Cooke said.

"Obviously, the result wasn't there, but the effort and determination and style of play was more like who we are."

The Bruins won when Patrice Bergeron, covered closely by defenceman Brooks Orpik, redirected Brad Marchand's pass behind goalie Tomas Vokoun at 15:19 of the second overtime.

An inch or two either way, and the pass might have missed Bergeron's stick or his shot could have gone wide of the net.

"He drove the net. He outbattled the guy," said Bruins centre David Krejci, the leading scorer in the playoffs. "It looked pretty simple, but it's tough when you go to the net to keep your stick on the ice and he managed to do that and got a big goal."

Comeback kids

The last team to lose a series after going up 3-0 was the Bruins in the Eastern Conference semifinals against the Philadelphia Flyers in 2010.

Serena eyeing return to French Open throne

Done with a dominating performance in the French Open semifinals, Serena Williams climbed the stairs leading from the locker-room to the players' lounge, looking to give her mother a hug.

Smiling widely all the while, Williams greeted visitors, posed for photos and signed autographs on her way.

It's been more than a decade since she was so happy — and played so well — this deep in the tournament at Roland Garros.

Coming as close to perfect as seems possible, Williams absolutely overwhelmed last year's runner-up, fifth-seeded Sara Errani of Italy, 6-0, 6-1 in a mere 46 minutes Thursday to reach the final for the first time since winning her lone French Open championship in 2002.

"It doesn't seem like that long ago," Williams said, "even though it was."

To collect her 16th Grand Slam title Saturday, Williams will need to beat defending champion Maria Sharapova, who put aside 11 double-faults and got past third-seeded Victoria Azarenka 6-1, 2-6, 6-4 in a much more competitive semifinal.

The final features the top two women in the rankings and seedings, No. 1 Williams and No. 2 Sharapova. They are two of three active women with more than two major championships; Sharapova completed a career Grand Slam in Paris last year with No. 4. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Try not to let your anxieties get the better of you. As Neptune turns retrograde in the most sensitive area of your chart today, you may see problems where none exist. Act as if life is wonderful — and it will be.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Today's events will encourage you to believe that all things are possible. But they could also tempt you to take foolish risks, so think before you act. If you make a mistake, fix it.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Keep things simple today. Also, tread carefully when dealing with employers and other important people. They may see you as a threat and try to clip your wings.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
The planets warn you should watch what you say today, especially if you are one of those Cancerians who tend to speak before fully engaging your brain. You are entitled to your opinion but others are just as entitled to disagree.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You will act on impulse quite a bit over the next 24 hours. Just be careful you don't say anything that could have a negative financial impact.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Your emotions may be raging but you are determined not to let anyone know about it. That's probably a good move, because if your rivals realize how deep your feelings are, they may exploit them.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Don't let your responsibilities weigh you down. It does not matter how much work you have to do or how far behind you are in your schedule, you must remain cheerful.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Others may give in to despair today but no way are you going to let it affect you. In fact, the more those around you indulge in feelings of doom and gloom, the more you will laugh at them.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Don't feel guilty about what happens to others. You are not responsible for the world and its woes and those who say you are should be laughed at loud and long.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Neptune's apparent change of direction in the travel area of your chart will leave you a bit confused about what you should be doing and where you should be going. The good news is there's no need to rush.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
You may think you know what is going on but the planets warn you are missing an important piece of the puzzle and it could cost you money. Whatever else you do today, don't take chances.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Neptune, your ruler, begins one of its retrograde phases today. Don't be surprised if important issues seem to move in the opposite direction of where you want them to.
